

Credit for Military Education

All University of Scranton undergraduate colleges award credit for military education earned through regionally accredited colleges affiliated with or sponsored by the United States military services if the courses are comparable to University of Scranton courses and applicable to the student's program of study. The award of credit from such regionally accredited military colleges is treated as transfer credit and is governed by all transfer credit policies. The University does not award credit for military training or experiences documented by transcripts issued directly by military services that are not under the purview of a regionally accredited college.